				A very nice day as the clouds kept the temp at about 75 degrees. The possible rain never happened.
				We put the pop-up tent up just in case. Lonesome Me shot his first match. Enjoyed himself, even while using really funky loads (International Clays instead of Clays). The forensics on this was interesting. Chuckaroo had his new Colts. Surprised he made it out of the parking lot without getting mugged by the rest of us as we all were drooling over them.
